Pittsburgh's Ultimate Haunted House Reveals New Nightmares

Pittsburgh's Ultimate Haunted House opens their doors to clowns, demons, and serial killers

PITTSBURGH, Pa (August 9, 2017) – The designers and fear experts at ScareHouse have opened their doors to a legion of terrifying and completely original characters and creatures. ScareHouse, located just minutes from downtown Pittsburgh, is regularly ranked as one of America's favorite haunted house attractions every Halloween season. This year's new attractions and scares feature everything from murderous clowns to demon possession to savage serial killers.

ScareHouse exists within a 100-year-old haunted building where designers, artists, and veteran fear experts combine genuine history with modern technological magic to create a haunted house experience unlike any other attraction anywhere in the country. "Pittsburgh's Ultimate Haunted House" is only open on select dates from September 15 through October 29th.

Admission into ScareHouse includes three terrifying haunted attractions for one price:

New for 2017: The Sunset Lodge invites guests to check-in to a hotel that's fully occupied ... by a swarm of savage serial killers!

Nocturnia 3-D: This twisted carnival of clowns and creatures is longer, weirder, and packed with ALL NEW 3-D effects for 2017.

Infernal: A collection of cursed artifacts from the darkest corners of the world released a legion of demons from the deepest depths of Hell.

ScareHouse's notorious and world famous immersive attraction, The Basement, also returns this year with more extreme and outrageous encounters than ever. This attraction contains high voltage effects involving electricity, very low lighting, tight spaces, strong scents, profanity, moments of complete darkness, water, violent situations, and high impact scares. Additional ticket purchase is required and all guests must be 18 or older and must sign waiver before entering The Basement.
